

North Carolina | Campus Compact

2009 Student Conference Friday Night Service Project, Reflection and Social!

Join college students from around the state in helping the people of western North Carolina stay warm this winter! Student Conference attendees are invited make blankets for the United Christian Ministries (UCM) of Jackson County, a local nonprofit organization. The donation will be presented to UCM during the Conference on Saturday and will be used to keep Jackson County residents warm during the cold months of winter.

After the service project, WCU Center for Service Learning will host a Reflection Activity. Service project attendees will have the opportunity to discuss this project and its impact on both the citizens of Jackson County and themselves.

Following the reflection, network with like-minded, civically engaged students for a pizza social hosted by Western Carolina University and NC Campus Compact. We look forward to seeing you there!

- Who: College and University Students
- When: Friday, November 6th from 5-10 pm
- Where: Western Carolina University
- Why: Jackson County residents need your help to stay warm this winter

For more information on the Friday Night Service Project or the 2009 Student Conference, you can visit the “Events” tab at <http://org.elon.edu/nccc/> or contact Jonathan Romm, NC Campus Compact Program Coordinator (jromm@elon.edu)